

i very much like the privacy of the no call list and hope to see the no call list to stay into effect. if these people can make money by using the telephone, they can come up with a way to make money in other ways. charities are the worst, they sell your name to other telemarketing companies which generate more unwanted calls.